

PUMPKIN SURPRISE!

Once upon a time near (insert name of your school) there lived a little old lady. Now, she lived in a funny little house that was shaped like half a circle with a chimney at the bottom.

She had a cat named (insert a child's name in your classroom) who had a long wiggly tail. She had a special door made just for the cat so it could go in and out of the house.

The little old lady always wore a pointed hat, so she had to have a door made so she could go in and out, too.

The little old lady also had two little birds named (child's name) and (child's name). She made a special window just for them to fly in and out.

Well, it was close to Halloween, and all the children in (use your name)'s class were going trick-or-treating together. They got all dressed up and went to the funny house where the little old lady lived. They knocked on the door (knock on a table), and she came to the door. She told all the children to close their eyes. Surprise! It's a jack-o-lantern.
